

Summary of Intended Benefits and Problems with LBAM Assembly Bills CASS Commentary

117 - Laird

Transfers the burden of proof of safety to the government, Requires addressing the health, scientific, environment and efficacy issues, Requires a plan on monitoring and tracking, requires air sampling and analysis of health outcomes, Requires determining how to respond to the 600+ health complaints and an independent analysis of impacts on health and the environment. (which the USDA/CDFR is supposed to already be doing)

2765 - Huffman

Requires a public hearing (which the bypassed EIR was supposed to afford.), Requires exploring alternatives to aerial spraying, (which the USDA/CDFR is supposed to already be doing)
Requires full disclosure of ingredients and a certification of safety.

2763 - Laird

Requires a list of possible eradication targets and strategies.

2760- Leno

Requires an EIR before spraying urban areas with pesticide. (which was already supposed to be in place.)

2764 - Hancock

Rescind the quasi-governmental, unelected bureaucrat's ability to unilaterally inflict the spray, (BUT still leaves it solely in the hands of one person, the Governor)

2892 - Swanson

Requires public participation (2/3 vote) but this could be the worst mistake of all. It puts into law the violation of the individual's rights as written in the CA and US Constitutions, to have their safety, property and privacy protected.

87 - Migden

Requires USDA/CDFR to demonstrate that the compound is safe and effective.
(It would be very easy for the CDFR or the USDA to get the EPA to offer such assurance as they have in numerous incidents in the past.)

All of these bills assume that the rights of the individual to not have their person and property violated will be surrendered to someone else other than the individual!

This is historic and dangerous to human rights, health and the environment.

If the bills fail, it is vital that this not communicate to the CDFR that they have won and will be free to spray. If the bills succeed, then hopefully it stops the spray and buys the time for us to restore our unalienable rights of each individual not to be sprayed without consent.
